Peter Coia wins First Place in the Renee Ashley Baker "Christmas Songwriting Contest"

Review by; Renee Ashley Baker

I like songwriter Peter Coia whose "Yellow Ribbon" made itself my favorite. No wonder Neil Young put this song on his website "Living With War". Peter Coia is a tried and true talent. His lyrics are pure poetry and his story telling style is Rod McKuenish. Peter Coia also reminds me of Tom T. Hall who had quite a few "movie song" hits I believe. Peter's "By The Christmas Tree" is catchy and is "easy to dance to". It is easy to dance to at the nightclub during the Christmas holidays and there for it should be covered--recorded--as well. I also liked Peter's "It's nearly Christmas Day" which I'd like to see covered (recorded) by "The Oak Ridge Boys".

(I'd like "The Oak Ridge Boys", "Randy Travis", Merle Haggard, Kenny Rogers, and George Strait to add Peter Coia to their rolodex if they have not done so already. And I am certain that there are many soft rock and pop groups who will be perusing Peter's song catalogue.)

Hi All,

You may have heard that I had a colonoscopy a few weeks ago.

When you get a colonoscopy they either knock you out or sedate you with an anaesthetic which makes you drowsy but I drove my car to the Hospital when I went for it and was told that I couldn't drive home if they gave me the anaesthetic so me being a stupid cunt told them to do it without the anaesthetic.

It wasn't until they wheeled me into the operating theatre and I saw the 60 inch long half inch diameter black hose that I realized I should just have set fire to my car, taken the anaesthetic and arranged for a taxi home.

It took nearly 30 minutes for them to shove the fucking hose 36 inches up my bum as they pumped me full of compressed air and it was so painful that when it was over, I asked the nurse if it was a boy or a girl. If I had recorded it, I reckon it would have been classed as a horror movie!

They told me I have diverticulitis. I don't know how I caught that as I can't swim and have never been diving (only muff diving).

They also took a biopsy (which I have asked them to put back when they are finished with it) but they didn't seem too concerned about it.

The plus side is that I can now sing some really high notes and one of the nurses in the operating theatre (who didn't know I was still awake) commented on the size of my willy (her actual words were 'ha ha ha ... look at the size of his willy!').

Did you know that 'Golf' stands for;
'Gentlemen Only Ladies Forbidden'?

Now we know why!

She never hit me....

It was the four iron that hit me!

He apparently hit the fire hydrant then the tree but failed to get up the ramp and into the clowns mouth.

What does Tiger Woods and baby seals have in common?

They both get beaten over the head by Scandinavians.

Tiger is no different from most of the guys I know. His car is a wreck, he is off work, his wife hates him, and he has sudden, unexpected, family expenses to deal with.

What's the difference between a car and a golf ball?

Tiger Woods can drive a golf ball for 400+ yards!

You have an uncontrollable urge to build homes out of straw.

You find yourself at night prostrate on your dining room table with fruit in your mouth.

Being covered in honey is no longer kinky, but rather worrisome.

Miss Piggy is all you fantasize about.

When someone calls you "fat pig" you expect a blue ribbon.

Mud baths become a daily necessity and are no longer considered pampering.

You have an unexplained need to whistle, "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf".

When friends visit you, they remark, "Man, this place is a pigsty!"

Poetic verse needed for Shetland toilets - posted 17.4.2009

(No, this isn't a joke, it's for real!)

A competition has been launched to find poetry which will feature in the toilets of Shetland. Six poems will be selected every three months to go on display in all leisure centre toilets and at other locations. The 'Bards in the Bog' competition is open to all ages, and poems may be on any subject. The only rule is that they must be 12 lines or less in length, as posters need to have large print which can easily be read from a seated position.

The first set of poems will be selected and installed in March. Poems will also be published on the library website. The closing date for the next entry to Bards in the Bog entries is 4th July, with further opportunities to submit poems.

Go to www.shetland-library.gov.uk for details on how to submit your verse.

It's a male thing, regardless of species!

Now I have this theory that Albert Einstein was really a woman, in fact I would go even farther than that and say he was Marilyn Monroe!

If you don't believe me, get up of your chair and stand as far away from your monitor as you can and have a good look at this photo of the genius.

This also disproves the theory that all blondes are dumb!!

How smart is your right foot?

Just try this, it will boggle your mind and you will keep trying over and over again to see if you can outsmart your foot, but you can't. It's preprogrammed in your brain!

1. While sitting where you are at your desk in front of your computer, lift your right foot slightly off the floor and make clockwise circles.
2. Now, while doing this, draw the number '6' in the air with your right hand. Your foot will change direction!

I told you so and there's nothing you can do about it ya DUNDERFOOT!
